2027-1 TPGA Professional Player

Membership Application Form

1. Eligibility:

All physically healthy, and morally upright males who have a passion for golf and aspire to pursue a career in professional golf may apply. The primary purpose of this event is to enhance the professional standards of golf, implement professional golf activities, establish a foundation for golf development, popularize golf, and promote national health.

2. Application Method and Location:

The completed form, along with the registration fee of NT$30,000 (please remit the registration fee via bank transfer), must be sent by registered mail to TPGA before the registration deadline. Please clearly indicate on the envelope "Professional Player Membership Test Registration" to complete the registration process.

The competition committee reserves the right to allow or deny registration. If a cancellation is desired after completing the registration process, it must be done before 2026/12/31 (Thu.); otherwise, only half of the registration fee will be refunded.

Register needs to pay the fees for the first and second rounds of the test (including 18-hole green fees, caddy fees for 1 to 3 clubs, insurance fees, and cart fees, totaling NT$2,070) on the official registration. Those with a total score not exceeding 159 after the second round will qualify for the next two rounds of the test. Fees for the third and fourth rounds should be paid after the second round, and the association will settle the accounts with the golf course after each round. Participants are requested to comply with the deadline for fee payment.

Scan the QR code in response to the completed registration, and relevant test information will be communicated through a LINE group specifically created for this registration.

4. Test Location:

Bombax Golf Country Club
No. 39, Banzhihuakeng, Dongyuan Li, Dongshan District, Tainan City 733, Taiwan
Tel: +886-6-686-2208

5. Test Method:

To ensure that participants are familiar with the rules, etiquette, and single rules of golf, successful candidates in the skill test must attend the scheduled academic lectures arranged by the association. Academic test schedule:

Registration Day: 2027/01/04 (Monday), 9:00 AM to 1:00 PM at the 1ST floor Club Lounge of the clubhouse to register and receive registration receipts. On the same day (via LINE and the official website), the tee-off time and important information for participants will be announced. On the registration day at 13:30, there will be a briefing on the single rules of this test and explanations.

Those who do not attend the academic lectures will have their skill test and membership application eligibility canceled, and no refund or objection will be allowed.

Skill Test Dates:
Practice Day: 2027/01/04 (Monday) (requires advance reservation with the golf course).
Test Days: 2027/01/05 – 2027/01/08 (Tuesday to Friday), a total of 4 days. The tee-off time for each round is 07:00. The green fee is NT$2,070 (additional charges for shop consumption, including 18-hole green fees, caddy fees for 1 to 3 clubs, insurance fees, and cart fees).

The skill test consists of 72 holes over 4 days. The standard par for the course is 72, and a total score within 296 (inclusive) is considered passing this membership test. In case the first round cannot be completed due to natural disasters or weather conditions, the skill test will be rescheduled. If all 4 rounds cannot be completed, the unfinished rounds will be rescheduled at the same venue.

Starting from February 8, 2010, R&A introduced the Clubhead Volume Measurement (i.e., the standard for using qualified clubs). Since January 1, 2012, all domestic Taiwan Tour events and PGA-sponsored exams have implemented the standard for using qualified clubs. Players and candidates are advised to check their clubs with equipment dealers to ensure compliance with R&A standards, avoiding any impact on their rights. Those who pass the skill test and do not violate the rules and image of the association will officially obtain professional player membership and be registered as association members.

6. Others:

Test participants must have a strong sense of honor and abide by all test rules. Any cheating, violation, or actions that damage the image of the association will result in the following penalties:

1. Test cheaters will have an indefinite suspension of test qualification. Supervisors in their responsible areas who fail to detect or condone cheating will be prohibited from participating in domestic competitions for 12 months, fined NT$100,000, and permanently disqualified from serving as supervisors. In serious cases, membership may be revoked.
2. Test participants who are absent without valid reasons will lose test qualification for one year and cannot request a refund.
3. Two professional members of the association are jointly responsible for the behavior and actions of the test participants during the test period and association-related regulations.
4. Test participants must be neat and clean. Violations of etiquette, use of vulgar language, and obvious damage to the venue during the test will result in immediate disqualification.
5. When entering the golf course, candidates must dress neatly. Sleeveless shirts, round-necked shirts, shorts, and slippers are not allowed. Wearing jeans, chewing betel nuts, consuming alcoholic beverages, and using mobile phones during the test rounds will result in disqualification without a refund.
6. From the time the TPGA receives the registration fee until the end of the test, candidates must wear formal attire as specified in point 5. Failure to comply, as confirmed by the golf course and TPGA staff, will result in the cancellation of the test qualification and forfeiture of the registration fee. Candidates, please take special note.

7. Notes:

1. Submit the application form with two guarantors, pay the registration fee, and join the official LINE test group to complete the registration.

2. Test participants who do not meet the test standards will still retain their amateur status.
3. Those who fail this test and wish to restore their amateur status can do so immediately after the test ends, without having to apply in writing to the ROC Golf Association. There is no restriction on the waiting period under Rule 9-2 of the R&A Golf Rules.
4. Joining members must pay the annual membership fee and joining fee within one week after the test.
5. "Test Participant Notices" will be announced at the departure station of the golf course during the practice week.
6. Candidates must pay the green fees and caddy fees for the first two rounds on the registration day.
7. When practicing at the golf course, candidates should follow golf course etiquette unless otherwise specified by the rules. If there are complaints from the golf course, the association has the right to suspend the candidate's test qualification.
8. During the practice period at the golf course, candidates should reserve tee times, use the designated tee for the test, and comply with the golf course regulations. Only one ball may be played during practice, except as permitted by the rules and on the green.
